PUNE, INDIA, January 13, 2017 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Global Industrial Lighting Market

The lighting industry includes general lighting, automotive lighting, and backlighting. The general lighting market is the major revenue-generating segment, followed by automotive lighting and backlighting. The general lighting market includes lighting applications for residential, industrial, commercial, outdoor, and architectural purposes. The residential and commercial segments are the major drivers for the general lighting market. General lighting can be either traditional or LED lighting. Traditional lighting is categorized into linear fluorescent lamps (LFLs), compact fluorescent lamps (CFLs), and others which include incandescent bulbs, halogens, and high-intensity discharge (HID) lights. The traditional lighting market will observe a decline in sales due to the rising popularity of LED technology.
