

LA-Based Composer Releases Debut Nature Soundscape Album Inspired By Daughter

Los Angeles-based composer Forest Robots aka Fran Dominguez has released his debut album, "Super Moon Moonlight Part One." It's the first in a series of albums.

LOS ANGELES, CA, USA, April 13, 2018 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Originally from [Mexico], Forest Robots AKA Fran Dominguez is a talented LA-based music composer who has honed his craft over several years. Specializing in contemporary instrumental music, Fran's work evokes strong emotions through the creation of beautiful sounds, which listeners have described as "hypnotic", "ambient", and "infectious".

The concept for Forest Robots began while Fran was traveling through the legendary mountain range of the Sierra Nevada in [2011-present]. While compiling hundreds of pictures of the beautiful landscape, narratives of his adventures attached themselves to his collection of images.

When his daughter was born in [2014], these narratives began to weave into a cohesive story, which Fran used to teach his daughter about the wonders of nature, the importance of spending time outdoors connecting with nature, and how vital it is to conserve public spaces.

Soon after, these narratives inspired Fran's music, and Forest Robots was formed.

Fran Dominguez's debut album 'Super Moon Moonlight Part One' is the first in a series of albums dedicated to his daughter. A love letter about the wonders of nature, the ten-track album is also a public message with the aim of inspiring others to spend more time outdoors.

With mesmerizing soundscapes, the album mixes orchestral instruments with various synthesizers, filtered dance beats, and electronic pads, to illustrate the beneficial dynamics of personal intimacy that can be achieved through connecting with nature on a deeper level.
