When Cardone speaks, people listen.

And when it comes to the topic of investing, he has a lot to say.

In a recently released YouTube video, Cardone aired his views on ‘The Worst Investment You Can Ever Make.’

“They won't teach you this stuff in school,” says Cardone,

“But here's the brutal truth about single-family homes...and the reason I started www.cardonecapital.com.”

“Houses weren't built for people, they were built for banks,” Cardone explains. “People are being lied to when they're told a house is a good investment. A house is actually the worst investment you could ever make, for one good reason...you have to pay the house; the house doesn't pay you. And if it doesn't pay you, it's not a good investment.”

Cardone firmly believes that although home ownership is a bad investment, multifamily real estate investing is the ultimate way for everyday investors to become wealthy. Cardone Capital offers accredited and non-accredited fund opportunities with cutting-edge approaches that are changing the face of the industry. The initial down payment can be relatively small, and, unlike with home ownership, investors start to see a passive income within 30 to 90 days.
