Additionally, our gummies are gluten-free and contain no THC. Getting a THC free gummy to meet our strict criteria for high quality and excellent taste is an accomplishment the Palm Organix™ team is excited about sharing with our customers." The entire line of Palm Organix™ CBD products come with Certificates of Quality Assurance which are readily available on our website as well as 3rd party lab testing to ensure their products contain no harsh chemicals, metals, fillers and most importantly, no THC.

PCR Hemp is considered to be the finest, purest hemp available and superior to Asian or European Hemp which is known to be inconsistent in both CBD and THC content.

Palm Organix's entire product line is completely THC free, which "differentiates Palm Organix™ from many of the other CBD companies whose products contain THC," says Herrera. "The majority of our customers for numerous reasons, including religious beliefs, work responsibilities or other reasons simply do not want to consume THC in any capacity. We have a diverse, nationwide customer base, who use our products knowing that they will receive all the benefits of Broad Spectrum CBD without any of the negative psychoactive side effects associated with THC." Palm Organix™ pure premium CBD oil products have an industry high ratio of CBD to Hemp Extract versus our competitors in the CBD marketplace resulting in the finest CBD products available to consumers.

Herrera continued that "Palm Organix™, in addition to reassuring our customers that our premium CBD oil products are held to the highest standards in terms of quality, we can also promise that our prices will always be reasonable. We price our products on average, 20-25% lower than that of most of our competitors in the pure premium CBD oil category. About CBD

Cannabidiol, more commonly known as CBD, is all-natural and is extracted directly from the hemp variety of the cannabis plant. CBD is one of more than 113 beneficial cannabinoids that the plant produces. CBD interacts directly with the endocannabinoid system (ECS) already present in our bodies. Mammals, including both people and pets, have an ECS. This ECS has a number of receptors that help regulate important bodily functions like a neurotransmitter and hormone secretion, temperature, and metabolism, as well as controlling inflammation, to name only a few. CBD essentially benefits the body by acting as a natural booster to the functions that the ECS is performing. CBD is safe, non-addictive, has relatively few side effects and does not require any special license to purchase. CBD may help with any number of health and wellness issues and new benefits are being discovered continuously.
