The Global Recyclable plastics market is forecast to reach USD 62.10 Billion by 2026, according to a new report by Reports and Data. Increasing awareness about the adverse impact of plastic pollution on environmental stability is on a constant rise. The rise in awareness about its harmful effect has been the result of experiencing the real-life complications associated with plastic pollution along with government initiatives. Such increased awareness about plastic pollution has acted as a significant driving force for the growth of the market. Apart from that, an increased number of research on enhancing recycling technologies and rise in social enterprises that are dealing with the issue of plastic pollution like UrbanR Recycle+ positively impacts the growth of the sector.

There has been a rise in demand for plastic in various regions like China being one of the leading nations. However, in these regions, the need for plastics is comparatively high in proportion to the plastic raw materials required to cater to this demand of these countries. Such disparity between increased demand and low supply of plastic raw materials bolsters the growth of the sector. Expansion of this sector can be established with the fact that till 2015, only 0.5 Billion tons i.e., only 6% of the total plastic produced was recycled. However, within only three years, i.e., by 2018, 1.3 Billion tons of the total produced plastic was recycled.

In market segmentation by manufacturers, the report covers the following companies-

Key participants include Avangard Innovative, B. Schoenberg & Co., Inc. Delta Plastics, UltePET LLC, CarbonLITE Industries, Veolia, Suez Recycling & Recovery Holdings, KW Plastics, Clear Path Recycling, Jayplas.
