NAVI MUMBAI, MAHARASHTRA, INDIA, March 26, 2020 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The global hand sanitizer market can be estimated to grow significantly in the duration of 2013-2023. Hand hygiene is fast becoming eminent on account of the prevention of nosocomial, food-borne and other diseases. Globally recognized institutions like the World Health Organization are now urging the population towards practicing hand hygiene.

Additionally, high living standards, the importance of hand care products and increased awareness of sanitation have led to an overall increase in demand for hand sanitization products. Ease of access, portability, cost-efficiency, and convenience can be seen as growth drivers for the global hand sanitizer market. Since the coronavirus outbreak, the use of hand sanitizers is being encouraged by public authorities as a preventative measure. In fact, in recent times, hand sanitizer has been one of the fastest-selling products in the market.

Now indispensable at schools, restaurants, and hospitals, hand sanitizers have become an essential product for health and hygiene purposes across the globe. The Asia Pacific Hand Sanitizer Market, including the countries Japan, China, Korea, India, Southeast Asia, and Australia have found China to be dominating the market.
