limited edition cigars is also popular with the collection, with known personalities receiving and reserving numbers such as Steve Harvey No. 17 for the day of his Birth, Wayne Gretzky "The Great One" No. 99, Andy Garcia's favorite No. 1, and Michael Jordan's No. 23. Cigar History

In speaking on their collaboration, Carlos Carlito Fuente Jr. told Marshall, "I want to do something for you very, very special. I am making a cigar for you, which I do for no one, to commemorate our long time friendship and my highest respect and admiration for you and your story. It's an honor to be able to participate with you on this special anniversary. I am humbly honored to have been chosen. I poured my heart into every detail, hoping to make you proud. I will give you my best."

Daniel Marshall visited Carlos Fuente and Ciro Cascella in Santiago, Dominican Republic on March 5, 2020. Carlos and Daniel discussed this masterpiece cigar after their recent visit to Chateau de la Fuente. Carlos mentioned their collaboration together is historic, and suggested Daniel wrap one of the eight cigars in his signature 24kt gold. "Anyone collecting these rare cigars in the special humidor will be collecting history." said Fuente. Both the cigar and humidor symbolize the best of what the two men have created over their lifetimes.

The XXXVIII is made from handpicked leaf, lovingly cultivated on the choicest acres at Chateau de la Fuente, Dominican Republic. One of Arturo Fuente's Master Rollers, in a special room where the "best of the best" of Fuente's cigars are made, brings to life only 12 of the XXXVIII Cigars a day, making this cigar extremely rare.
