Intelligent Diva says that she loves the saxophone. When you hear it can make you feel good? The sound of the sax does something to you. It has a great ambiance. She wanted to create a song that would tell create a scene and ambiance which would tell you how it makes her feel. But, at the same time she is a huge fan of hip hop and rap. When you hear the saxophone the first genre of music comes to mind is jazz. She wanted to merge the world of jazz and rap together, where the saxophone could also have its feature with a person who is a lyricist and a singer. The goal was to make the song sound hip, sophisticated, relaxed, sensuous and romantic. Intelligent Diva tells us she pictured the song being able to marketed and played in a great atmosphere, no matter where it's played.

She feels that he's a jazz musician which plays with great passion. Aaron Bing, is also responsible for the production on the single "Not Making Love", which the artist teamed up with him. Diva says, she thinks sax players are cool people. She also wanted to think outside of the box and create a jazz rap song which included a saxophone feature. This would allow her to create an ambiance that anyone could vibe to. It also taps into how the listeners enjoy music. For those who enjoy focusing on the lyrics, and also for those who enjoy listening to good music. Sex to a Sax is the song for you.
