SHERIDAN, WYOMING, UNITED STATES,
October 20, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ --
Market Overview:

According to the latest report by IMARC Group, titled "Recycled Glass Market Price: Global Industry Trends, Share, Size, Growth, Opportunity and Forecast 2021-2026", the global recycled glass market reached a value of US$ XX Billion in 2020. Looking forward, IMARC

Group expects the market to grow at a CAGR of XX% during 2021-2026. Recycled glass is made from broken pieces of waste glass, which undergo sorting, cleaning, crushing, and mixing with raw materials, such as sand and soda ash. The glass pieces are then melted to form new products of varied colors and sizes, including abrasives, bottles, jars, containers, insulation items, etc. Recycled glass aids in lowering emissions, reducing raw material consumption, saving energy, improving air quality, etc. Consequently, it is utilized across numerous industry verticals, such as food and beverage (F&B), construction, water, and wastewater treatment, etc.

We are regularly tracking the direct effect of COVID-19 on the market, along with the indirect influence of associated industries. These observations will be integrated into the report.

Market Trends and Drivers:

The rising need to minimize large landfills of waste and manufacture or upcycle various glass items is among the primary factors driving the recycled glass market. Moreover, recycled glass is increasingly substituting new glass to make packaging materials utilized in the food and beverage (F&B) industry, as glass can be recycled completely without affecting its properties, thereby further propelling the product demand. Besides this, the government bodies across several countries are implementing initiatives to encourage citizens, manufacturers, and communities to take steps towards a cleaner and safer environment. This is acting as another significant growth-inducing factor. Furthermore, the growing popularity of ready-to-eat (RTE) food products owing to the inflating income levels and hectic lifestyles of consumers is expected to fuel the recycled glass market over the forecasted period.
