

McNabola Law Group Representing Permanently Injured Victim Of Equipment Failure at Food Processing Plant

Renowned Chicago-based law firm takes case of worker maimed in accident caused by equipment failure of Armor Inox Tank #3 at OSI Industries facility

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS, UNITED STATES, September 20, 2022 / EINPresswire.com/ -- The McNabola Law Group (MLG) has filed suit against Armor Inox USA, LLC, a multinational company involved in the design and manufacture of commercial food industry equipment. MLG filed on behalf of Hugo Falcon, who sustained severe burns to his legs, ankles and feet when an Armor Inox commercial cooking tank failed on June 18, 2021, at the OSI Industries facility in Chicago.

The incident occurred when a component on the tank dislodged and spewed scalding water exceeding 190 degrees onto Mr. Falcon

"The tank was being operated in the manner in which it was intended at the time the incident occurred." said Mark E. McNabola, Founding Partner, McNabola Law Group. "Hugo Falcon will now be forced to endure significant pain and disfigurement for the rest of his life. We intend to aggressively investigate and prepare in an attempt to secure a significant financial recovery on behalf of Hugo."

The Plaintiffs in the suit are Hugo and his wife, Maria Lourdes Vazquez, both Chicago residents.

For further information, the case number is 2022 L 007738.
