Wheeler and Phillip McAdoo debut Darius Wants a Dog, the first of eight stories included in The Financially Fit Kidz series. Each book in the series will be co-authored by Bob Wheeler and a community thought leader exploring money choices and lessons for children. This engaging book teaches young readers about Darius. Darius decides that he desperately needs to have a dog and quickly learns that wanting new things can also require time, money, being responsible, and sometimes, deciding it's okay to change your mind!

Darius wants a dog, but he doesn't know if he wants the responsibility. When Darius asks both his dads for a dog, they encourage Darius to babysit his aunt's dog first. While it's so much fun to play with the dog, Darius also learns about budgeting for things like food and toys, how to make time for a pet, and that owning a dog isn't fun and games, all the time.

Bob Wheeler says, “I am excited to share that 10% of the profits will be allocated into marginalized communities and non profit organizations to help increase financial literacy for children. Empowering kids and their communities is just one way the Financially Fit Kidz book series can make a difference.” Pre Order books HERE.
