

E-SKIMO, The World's First Electric-Assisted Ski For Mountaineering Showcasing at CES 2025

The Revolutionary Technology, A Game-Changer for the Sport, Allows Skiers to Ascend Mountains 80% Faster

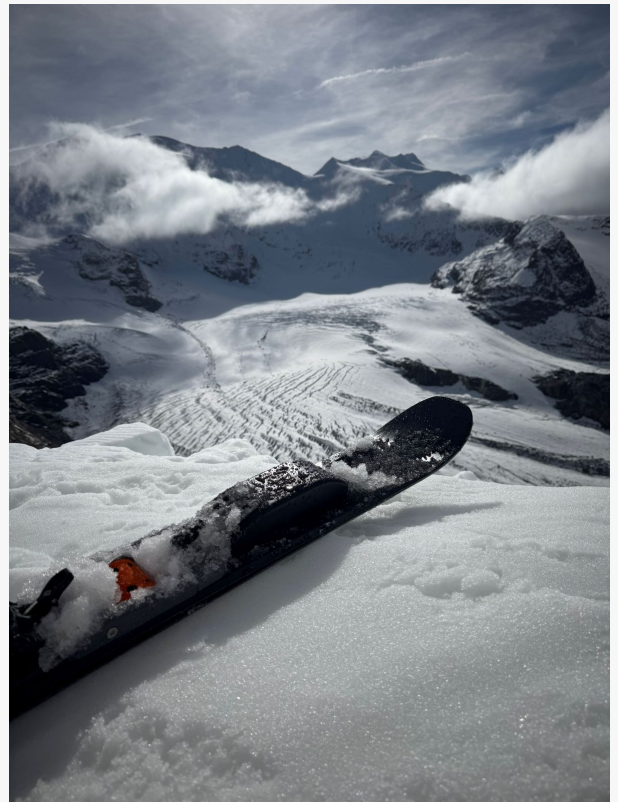

SAN BERNARDINO, SWITZERLAND, December 11, 2024 /EINPresswire.com/ -- E-Outdoor, the company behind the world's first electric-assisted ski mountaineering device, E-SKIMO, is set to make waves at the Consumer Electronics Show (CES) 2025 in Las Vegas. From January 6-10, attendees will experience firsthand how E-SKIMO is redefining ski mountaineering by combining cutting-edge technology with the thrill of skiing.

Drawing inspiration from the e-bike revolution, E-SKIMO's innovative system allows skiers to ascend mountain slopes up to 80% faster while reducing physical exertion by 30%, thanks to an advanced powertrain, lightweight battery, and smart sensor integration. This revolutionary technology ensures an effortless climb and seamless transition to downhill mode, enabling skiers to fully enjoy their descent on high-performance equipment.

Designed to make climbing easier, skiers are able to transform their gear in moments – pack up, gear down, and turn every descent into an unforgettable rush of adventure.

CES Highlights:

- Live Demonstrations: E-SKIMO will hold on-stage product demos at CES Unveiled (January 5 - Mandalay Bay Hotel) and throughout the show in the Swisstech Pavilion (Venetian Expo, Hall G, Booth 61033).
- Technology Showcase: Attendees can explore how E-SKIMO's electric-assist technology parallels the e-bike, making ski mountaineering more accessible and sustainable.
- Sustainability Focus: E-SKIMO empowers skiers to explore remote, pristine terrains without the
