Even Golf in Evanston

Evanston has recently gained recognition as an appealing place to retire, highlighted by Investopedia and

Evanston appeals to retirees for its affordability and quality of life, with plenty of recreational activities and a warm community spirit.”

Leslie Hutchinson

Redfin as a top choice. Local realtor Leslie Hutchinson notes, “Evanston appeals to retirees for its affordability and quality of life, with plenty of recreational activities and a warm community spirit.”

Among the various living options, one apartment building, Kodiak Apartments, offers newly remodeled, furnished studio apartments available for just $750 per month, including utilities. This makes it a compelling choice for those looking to enjoy a comfortable lifestyle without the financial strain often associated with retirement.

Current residents have shared their positive experiences, reflecting the area’s charm. Brian Allen, considering a move from Salt Lake City, mentions, “We’re drawn to the quieter lifestyle and the abundance of outdoor activities. The financial advantages here also make a lot of sense for our retirement plans.”

Similarly, Donald Morgan, who made the leap several years ago, appreciates the friendly environment and recreational opportunities, saying, “It’s a great place to settle down and enjoy life without the stress of big city living.”

With its attractive options and welcoming spirit, Evanston is quickly becoming a top choice for retirees. If you’re considering a move to Evanston or would like to learn more about available living options, we invite you to explore what this wonderful community has to offer.
