Our goal with the Fraud Prevention Center is to make it easier for clients to learn how to spot scams, protect their personal information, and feel confident in their financial security.”

Brenda Flory

Throughout November, clients can drop off personal documents for secure shredding at any Union Bank Co. branch location. Team Members will receive enhanced training to identify red flags of fraud and help clients recognize and avoid common scams.

Fraud awareness is critical in today’s increasingly digital world. Scammers are constantly developing new methods to steal personal information, making it essential for individuals to know how to protect themselves. By providing educational resources and one-on-one support, The Union Bank Company helps clients understand common fraud tactics and empowers them to take proactive steps to safeguard their finances.

“Fraud can impact anyone, regardless of age or experience,” said Brenda Flory, BSA/AML fraud specialist of The Union Bank Company. “Our goal with the Fraud Prevention Center is to make it easier for clients to learn how to spot scams, protect their personal information, and feel confident in their financial security. Education and prevention are the best defenses against fraud.”

The Fraud Prevention Center will provide educational materials, tips on protecting personal information, and direct access to bank team members for private conversations.

These efforts reflect The Union Bank Company's ongoing commitment to raising awareness and helping clients safeguard their financial information year-round.
