cash home-buyer solutions across the DFW region for inherited properties, probate home sales, divorce, and job relocation.

“When families are managing an inherited property or going through probate, the process can be complicated and emotional,” said Hilary Schultz, co-founder of Bright Bid Homes. “Because we live and work right here in North Texas, we understand what local homeowners are going through. Our goal is to make selling a home fast, fair, and simple — with clear communication, quick closings, and fair price offers Texans can trust.”

Bright Bid Homes works directly with sellers to eliminate the stress of open houses, costly repairs, and agent fees, allowing Texas homeowners to move forward on their own timeline.

“Our combined experience of more than two decades in real estate has taught us that homeowners value fairness and timing above everything else,” said Patrick Schultz, co-founder of Bright Bid Homes. “We’re proud to be a family-run business rooted right here in the Dallas–Fort Worth community — not a national ‘we buy houses company’ trying to buy properties by algorithm. As a family raising our children in Texas, every offer is personal to us. Our goal is to make the process easy, fair, and stress-free, with cash offers homeowners can depend on.”

With more than 2,900 real estate transactions completed across Texas, Bright Bid Homes continues to provide personalized solutions for homeowners facing difficult circumstances such as inheritance, divorce, job relocation, or homes needing major repairs.
