

Mark T. Hurt Law Offices Speak at National Black Lung Association Chapter, Guiding Coal Miners & Families

ABINGDON, VA, UNITED STATES, November 26, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Senior Executive Partner P. Heith Reynolds and Thomas Hurt of The Law Offices of Mark T. Hurt recently spoke at Drill's Local Chapter of the National Black Lung Association, where they addressed critical issues that continue to affect coal miners and their families throughout the Appalachian region.

During the meeting, Attorney Reynolds and the firm's team provided guidance on navigating federal and state benefits, understanding work-related limitations, and identifying circumstances where additional legal remedies may be available to miners living with black lung disease or other occupational injuries. The presentation emphasized the importance of education and early action for miners who may be unsure of their rights or eligibility for compensation.

The Law Offices of Mark T. Hurt remains committed to serving as a trusted resource for coal miners. To support that mission, the firm offers free consultations for any miner who has questions about benefits, workplace injuries, or potential claims. Individuals are welcome to call or stop by the office for a conversation at any time.
