In celebration of "Thunderstroke: A Poetry Memoir Inspired by a True Story" by Terence Ang as a TOP Pick, PWR will prominently feature Ang and his book on a massive billboard in the heart of New York City's Times Square.

This elevated recognition comes as part of the NYC billboard program, curated by publisher Ted Olczak of the Printed Word Reviews magazine. The program is a celebration of book excellence that promotes a select group of key titles, providing them with unparalleled visibility in one of the world's busiest cultural hubs.

“'Thunderstroke' is a powerful testament to the human spirit, and its message of endurance deserves the world's biggest stage,” said Ted Olczak, Publisher of Printed Word Reviews. “Our billboard program is designed to honor and amplify the voices of authors like Terence Ang, whose stories inspire meaningful change and offer true solace to readers navigating their own profound challenges.”

Terence Ang's selected work, Thunderstroke, chronicles his raw and inspiring journey following a life-altering stroke. Through poetry, Ang takes readers through the labyrinth of loss and profound change, ultimately finding a path to resilience and transformation.

The inclusion in the PWR TOP Picks list emphasizes books designed to inspire personal growth and offer a diverse reading experience. Ang's memoir, charting a personal journey from darkness to light, serves as a beacon of hope and a profound map for navigating the uncharted waters of upheaval and recovery.

Readers can find "Thunderstroke: A Poetry Memoir Inspired by a True Story" on the full PWR TOP Picks list, and fans can look forward to seeing Terence Ang's celebrated book showcased in lights in Times Square on December 13th.

Terence Ang's poetic journey chronicles a life-altering event: surviving a stroke. The memoir is lauded by PWR for its honesty and depth, taking readers on a profound journey from darkness to light. More than a recovery story, "Thunderstroke" transforms physical and emotional hardship into verse, offering solace and inspiration to anyone navigating their own profound changes or seeking to find beauty on the path to healing.

"Terence Ang's ability to articulate the turbulence and eventual triumph of recovery through poetry is nothing short of breathtaking," said the Printed Word Reviews publisher. "This collection perfectly aligns with our mission to emphasize books designed to inspire meaningful change and offer a diverse, impactful reading experience."

This inspiring work of literary fiction and non-fiction hybrid is a vital addition to the season's selection. Readers are encouraged to explore the full PWR TOP Picks list to see why this award-winning title is resonating so deeply with critics and readers alike.
