

Agenda Released for Energy from Waste 2017 Featuring Suez, DEFRA, Green Investment Bank and CEWEP

London to host the return of SMI's 10th annual Energy from Waste Industry Summit

LONDON, ENGLAND, UNITED KINGDOM, July 17, 2017 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Returning for its 10th installment in the established conference series, SMI Group has announced that registration is now live to attend Energy from Waste 2017.

This year's industry summit will look to strengthen knowledge in key topics such as: feedstock demand and supply chains; advanced waste gasification; financing initiatives outside public subsidies; the practicalities of community engagement schemes; and will keep attendees at the forefront of technological breakthroughs to adapt to the growing need for sustainable energy.

Understanding current UK policy developments, potential changes after BREXIT and EU initiatives surrounding the circular economy will be a major focus. Attendees will also hear a selection of case studies from international markets and local authorities currently implementing waste recovery projects including the City of Westminster and the North London Waste Authority CHP Plant.
