Description:

A cloud-based VDI solution is a computing model where an end-user's system is separated from the physical IT infrastructure, but can access all the necessary files and data virtually. This computing model uses a cloud-based storage space, wherein the system applications and data are stored in the data center of a primary cloud service provider. End-users can gain remote access to these applications and data using their login credentials. Rapid technological developments and the need for fast and reliable computing solutions have prompted many companies to opt and centralize their end-user data and applications, because centralization helps companies provide end-users with enhanced backup and reliable computing solutions. Cloud-based VDI is an emerging concept among companies in many countries and is expected to witness rapid acceptance in the near future.

Increase in adoption of handheld devices & smartphones for enterprise computing drives the growth of the market. In addition, rise in demand for virtualization and increase in adoption of cloud services fuel the market growth. However, high initial capital expenditure for setting up the infrastructure restrains the market growth. Conversely, increase in demand for desktop-as-a-service (DaaS) and rise in adoption of hybrid cloud solutions are expected to provide growth opportunities for the market.
