West Palm Beach's community, business, and public safety leaders come together to launch reelection efforts of Commissioner Christina Lambert

WEST PALM BEACH, FLORIDA, UNITED STATES, June 26, 2019 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Christina Lambert, West Palm Beach's District 5 City Commissioner, announced her re-election campaign for 2020. Lambert's campaign was officially launched during a reception on June 11 at Glidden Spina in West Palm Beach. The well-attended event was hosted by the Chamber of Commerce of the Palm Beaches and West Palm Beach Firefighters Association, with both declaring their respective endorsements of her campaign. A host committee consisting of nearly 40 local community and business leaders joined in the launch.

Commissioner Lambert also released the endorsements of U.S. Congresswoman Lois Frankel, Palm Beach County Commissioner Gregg Weiss, Palm Beach County Commissioner Mack Bernard and Palm Beach County Commissioner Dave Kerner during the evening.

At the event, Lambert offered the crowd of over 150 supporters several examples of the ways that she's fulfilled her "promise toward working towards a better future in West Palm Beach" since being elected to her first term in March 2018, including addressing mobility issues, prompting long-sought-after South End improvements, creating opportunities for new class A office space and jobs, and focusing on reducing violent crime and improved safety, among others.

Commissioner Lambert said, "today we have a City Commission that is working towards one goal; a shared vision for making a difference. We have a new Mayor, that I want to work with to focus on investing into our gateways, strengthening our business climate, improving safety in our neighborhoods and focusing on our neighborhoods."

"We have some exciting plans in our city moving forward in the coming months. From South Dixie to Broadway, we are pushing along the game-changing issues and projects that are going to shape our neighborhoods for the next generation," added Lambert
