"Drain ThatPain" is a course, the title of a book, and documentary. All three are teaching tools developed by Joanna Cameron. Attendees, readers, and viewers alike, learn how to connect with the energy in their body, identify the precise emotion connected with the pain, then release that emotion.

"When we are aligned with what many refer to as our spirit, intuition, inner being, or soul, we are happy, optimistic, and in the flow with what we want. In this state, our optimistic thoughts manifest," explained Cameron.

"However, when we are not aligned, we often experience anxiety, depression, disease, or chronic pain. Chronic pain simply means that you are out of alignment with your soul."

Joanna Cameron added that this imbalance is known as stuck-in-the-past, energy. When people in chronic pain let go of pain using holistic energy techniques, meditation, movement, connecting with nature, and self-love, the stuck energy is moved out of their past, and life.
