

The Unified Grand Prix – The final four teams are set, join us to see who will be our tournament winner

WICHITA, KANSAS, UNITED STATES, March 2, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The final four teams of the Unified Grand Prix are set, join us March 1 – 3rd to see who will become the winner of the first Tier 1 event of the season and their portion of the $20,000 prize pool. The tournament started on February 22nd with 12 teams, now our final 4 teams remain: SolaFide, Zoos Gaming, TSM Academy, and No Org. Join us on Twitch as the Unified Esports Association wraps up the first tier 1 event, <https://www.twitch.tv/academy>.

“The only difference between the professional and the amateur League of Legends scene is the gap in pay,” stated amateur player and Evil Geniuses Prodigies top laner, Jett “SrTTY” Joyce. This rang true last week as CLG Academy was knocked out of the UGP by an amateur team known as No Org.

Description:

The Unified Esports Association partnered with the League Championship Series to host this Spring's first Tier 1 event, the "Unified Grand Prix." (UGP) The UGP started on February 22nd--the 7-day long event goes through March 3rd and features a prize pool of $20,000. The top 10 teams from the Tier 2 Tournaments in the 2021 LCS Proving Grounds Circuit qualify for the event, as well as the 7th and 8th seeded teams from the Spring 2021 Academy season. The teams include: Barrage, C9 Amateur, CLG Academy, EG Prodigies, Maryville University, No Org, Revival, SolaFide, Supernova, TSM Academy, Winthrop University, and Zoos Gaming. The top 4 teams out of the 12 teams competing from the Unified Grand Prix will move on to compete in the 2021 LCS Proving
