

Project Boon Recaps Wins Amidst Challenges of 2020

Project Boon recounts challenges faced during 2020 and the COVID-19 pandemic and discusses the organization's wins and outlook.

RANCHO CUCAMONGA, CA, UNITED STATES, March 2, 2021

/EINPresswire.com/ -- The past year presented unprecedented challenges to individuals, businesses, and communities the world over. With the onset of COVID-19, which entered public consciousness in March 2020, Southern California found itself especially hard hit, becoming one of the virus's epicenters in the U.S. While people were finding themselves out of work as businesses closed, Project Boon saw in-need communities and insecurity growing as the ability to help others face-to-face shrunk. No matter, Project Boon rose to the occasion, strategized, and pivoted to extend a helping hand.

"Despite the 2020 pandemic, we remained committed to our purpose of giving back," stated Chris Suchánek, Executive Director. "We worked together, pivoted, and ended up serving more people with fewer volunteers than in past years."

Indeed, the organization's 2020 results speak for themselves. Project Boon organized five total events, and the organization took advantage of its partnership with The Hitch Burger Grill to enable deployment.

"Since Hitch Burger was deemed essential because of its drive-thru, we realized that all of the year's big plans didn't need to be scrapped...just re-imagined," stated Board of Director Chair Joel

Clelland. “Four of five events centered on providing groceries to families. And it’s a humbling sight to see a line of 300 cars spanning a mile long, waiting for assistance. It was proof just how important it was for Project Boon to continue operations during the pandemic.”

The organization served 20K meals in 2020. Furthermore, the group distributed thousands of cases of water, pairs of socks, backpacks filled with school supplies, Christmas toys, health resource packets, and even red roses to appreciative moms on Mother’s Day.

“It was amazing to see what we were capable of and what we accomplished—doing more with less,” reflected Suchánek. “The challenges of 2020 made us set the bar higher when goal setting for 2021.”
