This year, author Gopi Nair's will be presented by MainSpring Books through his journal which will be exhibited at the Book Fair. He is finally ready to calibrate everyone's viewpoint by challenging them to cultivate the value of gratitude and apply it daily, no matter where one goes and what one does – all thanks to his literary work. The published author has written a piece that gives a light read for everyone to relate to and enjoy. From his personal life experiences, he weaved a cohesive collection arranged by chapters. While this title has been successfully published online, he aims to grow his audience and inspire more people, especially those avid readers and festivalgoers. There's no stopping the author Gopi Nair from spreading positive affirmations and putting reflections into action!

Gopi's Gratitude Journal is a fitting guide into living life with a purpose, direction, outlook, and gratefulness. It is a perfect source of inspiration, especially that everyone is facing the most challenging times since the pandemic began. It is easy to lose ways and drive to achieve everyone's goals because of unfortunate events. Through this journal, the readers will be able to reflect and become inspired to know that as they wake up to live another day, there is always an opportunity for a fresh start, and being grateful for life itself is something that will pay off. The book has guide questions that serve as reflections that can help them live a purposeful life by putting their goals into action.

We at MainSpring Books passionately feel that the Gopi's Gratitude Journal by Gopi Nair can be a great conduit to literacy concepts, especially for this upcoming colossal social and cultural event. It will be a remarkable experience not just for us but also for our avid readers – past, present, and future.
