SHERIDAN, WYOMING, UNITED STATES,
December 13, 2021 /

EINPresswire.com/ -- According to the latest report by IMARC Group, titled “Global Non-Lethal Weapons Market: Global Industry Trends, Share, Size, Growth, Opportunity and Forecast 2021-2026,” the market is expected to grow at a CAGR of XX% during 2021-2026.

Non-lethal weapons (NLWs), also known as less-lethal weapons or compliance weapons, are weapons that are intended to be less likely to kill or harm living targets than conventional weapons, such as knives or firearms with live ammunition. They try to minimize the risk of casualties, permanent injury to personnel, undesired damage to property, etc. Non-lethal weapons aid in resolving escalation of force situations where the application of lethal force is prohibited or undesirable, where policy restricts the use of conventional force, or where the rules of engagement require minimum casualties. NLWs are widely utilized by military police, United Nations forces, law enforcement agencies, occupation forces, etc., during peacekeeping and stability operations.

Non-Lethal Weapons Market Report

As the novel coronavirus (COVID-19) crisis takes over the world, we are continuously tracking the changes in the markets, as well as the industry behaviours of the consumers globally and our estimates about the latest market trends and forecasts are being done after considering the impact of this pandemic.

Non-Lethal Weapons Market Trends:

The escalating incidences of civil unrest and geopolitical tensions across the globe are among the primary factors driving the non-lethal weapons market. Furthermore, the increasing adoption of NLWs by individuals as a means for self-defense is also propelling the market growth. In addition to this, the integration of advanced technologies, including laser interdiction systems, long-range acoustic devices, enhanced underwater loudhailers, etc., is augmenting the global market. Moreover, the inflating requirement for tasers, smoke grenades, rubber bullets, tear gas, etc., among law enforcement agencies for riot control purposes is acting as another significant growth-inducing factor. Besides this, the expanding popularity of area denial military equipment, such as anti-personnel and anti-vehicle devices, is projected to fuel the non-lethal weapons market in the coming years.
