MHProNews extensively quotes-unpacks
Institute for Policy Studies report GILDED GIVING 2022

How Wealth Inequality Distorts Philanthropy and Imperils Democracy

KISSIMMEE, FL, USA , September 21, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The Institute for Policy Studies (IPS) describes itself as follows. "We're a progressive organization dedicated to building a more equitable, ecologically sustainable, and peaceful society." IPS's writers Chuck Collins and Helen Flannery coauthored the following.

"GILDED GIVING 2022: How Wealth

Inequality Distorts Philanthropy and Imperils Democracy." In their 2020 edition, IPS' report said the following with italics added by MHProNews. "Ten years ago, in August 2010, several dozen U.S. billionaires led by...pledged to give away at least half of their wealth before their death.

It's not only a monopoly of wealth its a monopoly on information as well." Glover was quoted on video in the multiple award winning documentary drama
"Shadows of Liberty."

Danny Glover, IPS board member. Also served on Novo Foundation board.

Many have donated considerable sums to charities and foundations since then. But as a group, these billionaires have seen their fortunes skyrocket in the decade since the so-called Giving Pledge was launched."

That interesting dynamic is examined by MHProNews in a new report that extensively cites IPS and the Gilded Giving series of reports. The report names names, and looks at several foundations and nonprofits by name. Individuals and organizations named, implied, and described in this series of reports on nonprofits and foundations impact manufactured housing specifically. But as Collins and Flannery document, it impacts the U.S. economy, has impact on taxpayers, and involves a call to action for policy makers and government officials.

Among the topics explored are wealth inequality, Philanthro-Feudalism, Philanthro-Capitalism, the Charitable Industrial Complex and the "threat to democracy" that IPS' Gilded Giving 2022 asserts is connected to the issues their detailed report explored.

IPS' insights are cross checked and compared and contrasted in remarks and facts provided by others who have commented on similar or related issues. They include the Capital Research Center (CRC), Influence Watch, and Manufactured Home Living News.

A possible example of how this nonprofit pattern has played out in the manufactured home industry, which is often inaccurately called "mobile homes," ix as reported by the Manufactured Housing Association for Regulatory Reform (MHARR). See the linked item below for details.

The remarks, facts, and observations by IPS' co-authors Collins and Flannery which are examined seem to echo what former Governor Jerry Brown (CA-D) has previously said on related issues. See Brown's quoted comment among the featured images provided with this media release.

The award-winning documentary drama, Poverty Inc., also makes similar points as IPS' Gilded Giving 2022. Robert F. Kennedy Jr is among those cited in the MHProNews analysis of the recent IPS report. IPS' report has been featured by USA Today and US News and World Report, per the IPS website. ##
