

SPRINGFREE TRAMPOLINE LAUNCHES LIMITED-EDITION, PINK TRAMPOLINE IN PARTNERSHIP WITH SUSAN G. KOMEN

Leading Trampoline Company Partners with Susan G. Komen for the Second Year, Supports Breast Cancer Awareness Month

DALLAS, TEXAS, USA, October 4, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- To honor Breast Cancer Awareness Month in October, the world's safest trampoline company Springfree Trampoline is launching a limited-edition, pink trampoline in partnership with Susan G. Komen as the brand supports the foundation's work to educate and generate awareness for breast cancer research for the second year.

For every pink trampoline sold, $100 will be donated to Susan G. Komen, which seeks to save lives by meeting critical needs in affected communities and investing in breakthrough research to prevent and cure breast cancer.

"As a survivor of breast cancer, it is an honor and privilege to support SGK in the impact they are having across the country," said France Jacot, VP of Marketing, North America. "The Springfree Trampoline team was an incredible support system during my battle with breast cancer, and it brings me joy to see our team continuing to support breast cancer awareness through this partnership."

Springfree Trampoline began its partnership with Susan G. Komen in 2021, the year that its own marketing executive, France Jacot, was diagnosed with breast cancer. Prior to Jacot's diagnosis, Springfree had already been in contact with Susan G Komen because of their aligned missions. Now, due in part to Jacot's leadership and personal connection to the disease, Springfree Trampoline is committed to partnering with Susan G Komen in October to offer a limited-edition pink trampoline that benefits the nonprofit.
