"We're excited to bring a new kind of entertainment to Portland," said Dave Sacks, an owner of The People's Courts. "The People's Courts will be a place for people to come together, play, and have a good time year-round. Our goal is to provide something fun for everybody, and we think we have accomplished that."

Easily accessible off NE 82nd Ave and with ample parking, The People's Courts building was originally an AMF bowling alley, and most recently operated as 'The Lumberyard', an indoor BMX bike park. The Lumberyard closed last August. Undergoing a full interior and exterior renovation, The People's Courts will be a venue unlike any other in the country.
