"...action-packed, badass characters and a great ending."
Charlie Michael Cargill, Juicebox Reviews

"Art of Deception" revolves around the harrowing story of Joseph Markham, a CIA scientist played by Richard Ryan, who uncovers a sinister plan involving a nano chip capable of controlling the human mind. Faced with the dilemma of choosing between saving his wife or the entire human population, Markham embarks on a thrilling journey filled with danger, suspense, and a profound exploration of technological ethics.

"When I started writing 'Art of Deception,' the concept of neural nano chips was more science fiction than reality. They are rapidly becoming a reality with companies like Elon Musk's Neuralink and Blackrock's Synchron. These incredible technological advancements make the narrative of 'Art of Deception' even more compelling and timely for today's audience. I am very appreciative and grateful to those with whom I have been able to share the creation of 'Art of
