

Couche-Tard and Circle K Partner with ChargeHub, Expanding Access to Thousands of EV Drivers

Couche-Tard and Circle K join Canada's largest interoperability hub.

MONTREAL, QUEBEC, CANADA, May 2, 2024 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Couche-Tard and Circle K Partner with ChargeHub, Expanding Access to Thousands of EV Drivers

With the addition of the Couche-Tard and Circle K network to Canada's largest charging interoperability hub - PassportHub - it is now possible for EV drivers from many popular networks to charge seamlessly at its stations.

Couche-Tard, a world leader in the convenience and mobility sector, has partnered with ChargeHub to make its network of electric vehicle charging stations compatible with users of many other networks. Couche-Tard is a leading destination for EV charging at its Circle K locations in Europe, where it offers fast charging at more than 400 locations. The company has plans for 200 charging locations across Canada and the U.S. by the end of this year.

The partnership with Couche-Tard represents a significant milestone for the industry as it demonstrates the interest in our charging interoperability solutions within the retail sector.”

In addition to being accessible on the Circle K - Couche-Tard Recharge app, the stations in its network will also be compatible, through the - Passport Hub - with many network applications as well as multiple car brands, via their mobile application or infotainment system. The charging stations will also support vehicle fleet customers via the apps of major players that offer fleet management services. While the list of compatible partners is evolving, the list of partners connected to the Passport Hub can be viewed by clicking

"The partnership with ChargeHub makes our Canadian network available to additional EV drivers. Making our customers' lives easier is part of our corporate DNA and that's exactly what we're accomplishing through this partnership," according to Stéphane Drapeau-Bouchard, Senior Manager Electric Mobility Operations North America.

"The partnership with Couche-Tard represents an important milestone for the industry as it demonstrates the value of our charging interoperability solutions for major retail banners looking to offer electric vehicle charging. We are delighted to see that these players, who have strategic sites and complementary services to charging, want to make their network available to as many EV drivers as possible, in the most efficient and scalable way possible," adds Simon Ouellette, President and CEO of ChargeHub.
