Global Song Search

Luke Danelon

Luke Danelon of Ghost Rocket Music explains, "We are seeking to partner with an artist or group of artists who care very deeply about the health of our planet to create a song which will accompany the launch of the GHOST Rocket. We want this song to embody the spirit of scientific exploration, humanitarian aid and the benefit of all people.

This is our call out to you - Musicians and Songwriters of planet Earth - Send us your music! Send us your songs! We will listen and you will be heard! It's our hope that as your music helps to elevate the lift-off of this GHOST Rocket mission, we too can help elevate you into the stars.

As a proud Canadian-born dual citizen, living in the United States, it is my personal honor to be able to represent both countries in the capacity of peace and unity, partnering with our wonderful friends in Norway and around the world. This mission is very special to me. Music is the unifying common thread that ties us all together as human beings."

Kolbjørn Blix, Andøya Space, Norway adds, "What more could you want from a working day than to be surrounded by young people who experience mastering big and small challenges, and who are in a state of euphoria at the moment their projects go skyward on a rocket they themselves have contributed instruments to, and participated in the integration of? You can literally see stars in their eyes!"

This song search is open to all music, whether lyrical, musical-only, electronic or organic, in all genres. Song themes can include exploration, freedom, unity, community and perseverance. Deadline for submissions is midnight Eastern Time May 16th, 2025.

Entries will be evaluated by music luminaries and award-winning recording industry leaders associated with HIMA. The winning song will debut at the 2025 HIMA main event set for July 30th and its music video will screen at the 2025 Hollywood Music in Media Awards being held on November 19th. Both shows are at the historic Avalon Hollywood.

The GHOST Rocket launch, and its accompanying song, are scheduled for November 12th, 2025, in Andøya, Norway.
