"I founded Valentine Injury Law because I saw a clear need for a different approach to helping injured individuals," said Brad Valentine. "Unfortunately, over the years, the focus of personal injury law has shifted toward loud commercials and treating people like a commodity. I wanted to do better for my clients. Before my dad passed away, he said that he just wanted to make a difference.

Brad Valentine, a seasoned attorney with a proven track record of success, today announced the establishment of his new firm, Valentine Injury Law.

That's exactly what I have set out to do for my clients. At Valentine Injury Law, our clients will become part of our family, not just be a settlement number or piece of paper. I am confident that our old-school approach, along with our use of advanced technologies, will allow us to build more meaningful relationships with our clients while maximizing the value of every case we take.

We will make a difference in all of their lives.”

Mr. Valentine brings a wealth of diverse legal experience to his new firm. He began his career as a law clerk for the Honorable Dudley Hollingsworth Bowen, Jr. in the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Georgia, gaining invaluable insight into federal court procedures. He further honed his legal acumen at Troutman Sanders (now Troutman Pepper), advising major corporations on employment law and litigating complex, high-stakes disputes. His career also includes representing both plaintiffs and defendants in a variety of state and federal courts nationwide at a business and construction litigation firm.

Through this extensive experience, Mr. Valentine recognized a significant gap in legal representation for individuals. Driven by a desire to ensure access to justice for all, he now dedicates his practice exclusively to representing injured people and accident victims across Georgia. His practice focuses on a range of personal injury matters, including wrongful death, car accidents, trucking accidents, premises liability, and all cases involving catastrophic injuries. Leveraging his diverse and well-rounded legal background, Brad Valentine has consistently achieved outstanding results for his clients, both through settlements and at trial. Notably, he has recovered over $42 million for his clients in the last four years alone (since 2020).

Mr. Valentine's commitment to excellence has been recognized by his peers. In both 2024 and 2025, he was selected as a Super Lawyers Rising Star, an honor reserved for no more than 2.5% of attorneys practicing in the State of Georgia.

Mr. Valentine holds a law degree from the University of Georgia School of Law, graduating cum laude, where he was a Merit Scholarship recipient and served as Managing Editor of the prestigious Georgia Law Review. He also graduated from UGA summa cum laude, with a Bachelor of Business Administration in Finance.

Valentine Injury Law is now accepting clients throughout Georgia and is committed to providing compassionate, diligent, and effective legal representation to those who have been injured due to the negligence of others.
