by GCC nationals. Beyon Cyber is the only Bahrain based company to make the list and the only company this year to receive both prestigious honours.

The Deloitte Middle East Technology Fast 50 programme recognizes the region's fastest-growing technology companies based on verified four-year revenue growth, highlighting those that combine rapid scale with innovation and entrepreneurial drive. Beyon Cyber's third consecutive inclusion reflects not only sustained performance, but also its growing market leadership in one of the region's most complex, trust-dependent sectors.

The 'Kiyadat' award, introduced by Deloitte this year, honours high-performing technology companies founded or led by GCC nationals who are shaping the region's digital and economic future. Beyon Cyber is 100% Bahraini-managed and currently the largest private sector employer of Bahraini nationals in cybersecurity — a reflection of its deep alignment with national talent development strategies and long-term commitment to building sovereign capabilities.

Speaking on the occasion, Dr. Shaikh Khalid bin Daij Al Khalifa, CEO of Beyon Cyber said, "Winning this recognition three years in a row confirms that Beyon Cyber is among the fastest-growing technology companies in the region. In a list dominated by SaaS and Fintech players, we're proud to be the only cybersecurity company recognized — a clear signal that our growth is not only strong, but differentiated and built for scale."
