Anything is possible

Take time to listen to your voice alone. Ask the trees, for they have not forgotten how to love.”

Pamela PerryGoulardt

The Girl vows to find the antidote and gains access to the Sun Portal to visit the Great Phoenix, whose tears can purify Earth's waters, but the clock is ticking because the portal is closing for the next thousand years. A young boy, the son of Father Time, assists in bending time to allow the Girl to reach the sacred bird and return safely.

The short film of “The Girl Made of Earth and Water” aroused deep curiosity in the jury of the Gabriel García Márquez Prize 2024.

Director and screenwriter Pamela PerryGoulardt, by adopting a classic animation style, takes us into what seems to be a fairy tale. The world, at this historical moment, needs fairy tales, and we always appreciate authors who choose this archaic yet effective narrative style. Federico Fellini considered "Pinocchio" one of the greatest novels of all time, and we agree, because fairy tales always carry great wisdom, essential for any artist who wishes to communicate something important to their readers or viewers.

Now is the time to shoot forth the arrows of your highest hopes.

After watching the intriguing short film, the entire jury has expressed a desire to learn more about the project "The Girl Made of Earth and Water," that features a poetic dimension suggesting the development of a work we eagerly anticipate discovering.

The short film "The Girl Made of Earth and Water" has received numerous accolades from the WILD FILMMAKER PLATFORM including: "The Best of Independent Cinema from the World - Indie Hall of Fame Awards, 2025. Best Arthouse Short Film - Hollywood Film Critics Awards-2024. The Siena International Film Showcase 2025, and Tope alternative Screens - SPOTLIGHT ARTIST.

A big thank you to WILD FILMMAKER for selecting the project, written and directed by Pamela PerryGoulardt.
