PACE Anti-Piracy Extends iLok License Delivery App for Shopify to Include Rent-to-Own Licensing

PACE's iLok Shopify App now supports Rent-to-Own licenses, giving users affordable access and publishers new ways to sell software securely.

SILICON VALLEY, CA, UNITED STATES, May 23, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- PACE Anti-Piracy, Inc., an innovator in secure license management solutions, proudly announces the expansion of its iLok License Delivery App for Shopify to include rent-to-own licenses. This new functionality provides software publishers even greater flexibility in product sales and enables customers to access premium software through affordable, structured payments.

Shopify Integration for iLok Licensing

The enhanced iLok License Delivery App for Shopify now supports three license models: Perpetual, Subscription, and Rent-to-Own. With rent-to-own licensing plans, customers can start using the software immediately, with the convenience of manageable monthly payments. After completing a predetermined number of payments, the license automatically converts into a perpetual license without additional costs, and payments cease.

Andrew Kirk, Vice President of PACE, highlighted the strategic benefits of this feature: "Our goal is to empower software publishers by expanding their sales models to include highly requested options like rent-to-own licensing. This addition significantly enhances the publisher's ability to reach broader markets, offering their customers flexibility and affordability while maintaining secure license management."

This new offering leverages the robust iLok Licensing platform—trusted by over 12 million registered users—integrated seamlessly with Shopify, allowing publishers to effortlessly deliver licenses directly into their customers' iLok accounts. The automated license delivery system eliminates activation codes and manual registrations, enhancing customer satisfaction and reducing support overhead.

The iLok License Delivery App with rent-to-own support is available immediately.
