The End of an Era: What This Means for QuickBooks Desktop 2022 Users

We manage the entire process - from data migration to staff training - while maintaining the accuracy and integrity of your financial records.”

Anthony Mbadiwe

Intuit’s announcement to discontinue support for QuickBooks Desktop 2022 has sent ripples through the business community, especially for companies that depend on the software for their accounting and financial management. After May 31, 2025, QuickBooks will no longer provide software updates, security patches, or customer support for this version, leaving users exposed to potential cyber threats and compliance issues.

“The reality is that staying on an unsupported accounting platform can jeopardize the integrity of your financial data,” warns Anthony Mbadiwe, founder of ACM CPA. “Without regular updates and security patches, businesses are vulnerable to cyberattacks and may face difficulties during tax season without technical assistance.”

Two Clear Paths Forward: Upgrade or Partner with ACM CPA

To navigate this significant change, ACM CPA recommends two viable solutions:

1. Upgrade Your QuickBooks Software

Transitioning to the latest version of QuickBooks Desktop or migrating to QuickBooks Online will safeguard your data and improve your accounting efficiency. Upgrading means you’ll receive continuous security updates, feature enhancements, and access to dedicated customer support from Intuit.

However, software upgrades can be complex and time-consuming, often disrupting regular business operations if not handled properly. Selecting the right version and migrating data requires expertise to avoid costly mistakes.

2. Rest Easy with ACM CPA’s QuickBooks Experts

ACM CPA’s team of certified QuickBooks ProAdvisors offers you a seamless transition to the latest accounting software solutions.
