International Buzz: Tokyo's Tower Records Performance

Earlier this spring, Har Mar played a special in-store show at Tower Records Shinjuku in Tokyo.

"Tower Records was selling many copies of my latest album, Roseville, at their Shinjuku location in Tokyo," Har Mar explained. "It grew something of a word-of-mouth cult following, and when they heard I'd be in town, we decided it'd be a great treat to play a solo performance in the store and sign copies of the album. A local promoter helped put it all together. I can't wait to see everyone! I've been obsessively brushing up on my Japanese."

A Heartfelt Homecoming: Omaha's Reverb Lounge

Another highlight of the 2025 tour was Har Mar's emotional return to Omaha, NE, where he performed at the Reverb Lounge in June.

"Omaha is a really important place to me and the development of my music," he said. "I wrote many early Har Mar songs there with the guys from The Faint and spent a lot of time immersed in the very thriving scene they cultivated starting in the mid-90s. I've always loved playing there."
