The Düsseldorf Experience Centre is more than a showroom; it's a hub of innovation that brings the future of print enhancement to our customers.”

Scodix CEO Eli Grinberg

the future of print embellishment to our customers," said Scodix CEO Eli Grinberg. "It's a place where brands and printers can truly understand the transformative power of our technology to create differentiated, high-value applications and use it for trainings, events, and special innovation days."

The Experience Centre will give visitors an up-close look at the company's flagship digital embellishment presses in action, showcasing the precision and versatility of the Scodix platform.

Technology in Action: Visitors will experience live demonstrations of Scodix's proprietary technologies, which deliver over 16 applications and new substrates and allow brands complete creative freedom:

- Smart High-Definition (SHD) Technology: This allows brands and printers the freedom to embellish virtually any design, specializing in fine lines, intricate details, patterns, tiny text, and large surface flat foiling.

- Scodix Multi-Layer Embellishment (MLE): This unique feature enables printers to add multiple, highly tactile layers to their designs, delivering unmatched depth and texture in a single pass.

The centre is designed to be a focal point for unveiling groundbreaking new applications. At the private launch events held in mid-October, the company showcased its 17th groundbreaking application – which will be formally launched later this month.
