Dr. Kelsey Jones brings warmth, compassion, and extensive veterinary experience to her work in end-of-life care. A native of Spring, Texas, she earned her undergraduate degree in pre-veterinary sciences from Sam Houston State University before completing her Doctor of Veterinary Medicine at Ross University School of Veterinary Medicine in 2020, finishing her clinical training at Texas A&M University.

From a young age, Dr. Jones felt called to help animals, working in veterinary hospitals as a teenager and throughout college. As a general practitioner and urgent care veterinarian, she has developed a reputation for compassionate and transparent care, taking time to educate pet parents and support them through every stage of their pets' lives.

For Dr. Jones, providing in-home euthanasia is one of the most meaningful parts of her work. "People often believe performing humane euthanasia for pets is the hardest part of a veterinarian's job; it is difficult, but it's not the hardest thing we do," she shares. "I find comfort in the process because it provides a compassionate, safe, and kind option to alleviate pet suffering. It allows us as their caregivers to shepherd them over the rainbow bridge with the dignity and respect they deserve. Providing this service at home allows pets to pass peacefully surrounded by their favorite people, toys, and smells, and allows their loved ones space to grieve in private."

Dr. Jones serves Conroe, New Waverly, Willis, and Huntsville.

How In-home Pet Euthanasia Works

Through CodaPet's website, pet parents can easily book in-home pet euthanasia performed by a licensed vet.

Before the appointment, the vet contacts the family to address any questions or concerns they might have.

The vet assists the family by going over the diagnosis and applying a quality-of-life assessment to objectively assess the pet's health and ensure there is no uncertainty about the need for euthanasia.

For those who need support with aftercare, CodaPet can also assist with transportation and cremation services.

The visit takes, on average, one hour. Pet parents have a window of time to be with their pets privately before and after the euthanasia procedure, which lasts about 15 minutes. The vet only starts the euthanasia process when everyone is ready. This helps bring closure to all family members involved in the end-of-life care of a pet.

Benefits of In-home Pet Euthanasia include:

1. Compassion: In-home pet euthanasia allows for a more compassionate approach to end-of-life care. Pets can be surrounded by their loved ones, receive individual attention and care, and pass away peacefully in a familiar environment.
2. Comfort: One major benefit of in-home pet euthanasia is the comfort it provides to both the pet and their owners. The familiar surroundings of home can help reduce anxiety and stress for pets, making the process more peaceful. In addition, being surrounded by loved ones can provide a sense of support and comfort during a very difficult time.
3. Control: In-home pet euthanasia also allows pet owners to have more control over the experience. They can choose the time and place of the euthanasia, as well as who will be present. In addition, in-home euthanasia allows owners to personalize the experience, including choosing the location, music, lighting, and other factors that can make the experience more meaningful.
4. Closure: Being able to say goodbye in a meaningful way can be an essential part of the grieving process. In-home pet euthanasia allows for a more intimate farewell, which can provide closure and help with the healing process.

In-home Pet Euthanasia Costs

The starting price of in-home euthanasia starts at $325 in Conroe, TX. The aftercare and cremation price begins at $190 and varies depending on factors such as the driving distance, the pet's size, and the option for private or communal cremation.
