Impact of Covid-19 on Platform-as-a-Service Market

- The demand for platform-as-a-service (PaaS) solutions increased during the Covid-19 pandemic with adoption of the "work from home" culture in organizations and high dependency on cloud resources.
- In addition, online shopping increased during the pandemic to ensure safety and prevent cross-contamination that may take place in visits to physical stores. This led to the adoption of PaaS solutions to scale up cloud presence by small and medium level enterprises.
- Many organizations have been planning to use domestic, cross-border, and regional payment solutions through a single interface and manage complexities and difficulties regarding moving funds. This resulted in PaaS adoption.
