Receiving the award, Shilpi Satishchander Kapoor, CEO of BarrierBreak, became visibly emotional as she dedicated the honour to her team.

"Thank you, team. This is a proud moment for each of us. A recognition of all our hard work, effort, growth and passion to make a difference in the lives of people with disabilities," she said. She added, "That moment when I walked into the room today, there was pride and also tears for what this journey has been. To be recognized with a National Award makes the entire path worth it. This is a huge milestone in our journey to make digital inclusion a reality for all."

Shilpi was joined at the ceremony by Shashank Kapur, Director of Strategy & Growth, and Abhay Kapur, Product Manager, at BarrierBreak who witnessed this significant moment alongside her. Employees across BarrierBreak expressed their pride and joy, celebrating this achievement as a collective victory.

This recognition holds special meaning as it comes during BarrierBreak's 20th anniversary year, marking over two decades of relentless dedication to building an inclusive digital world.

During the award ceremony, President Droupadi Murmu highlighted the need to advance a rights-based approach for Divyangjan. She emphasized that society must engage with persons with disabilities as equal partners, stating that respect and not charity should guide all efforts.

The President also acknowledged the Government's initiatives to improve accessibility and inclusion through strong legislation and executive actions.

The award reinforces BarrierBreak's unwavering commitment to accessibility, innovation, and inclusive growth, as the organization continues to lead the movement for digital inclusion across India and globally.
